1.2 Internal difference in any ONE religion

1.2.1 Difference in teachings

Teachings in Islam

- Islam is divided into two major groups, namely the Sunni and Shi'a.

Sunni Muslim

- Sunni refers to following the Sunnah (example) of the Prophet Muhammad.
- The Hadith narrated by the companions of the Prophet have equal status to those narrated by his family members.
- The sect believes that all the teachings contained in the Books of Hadith are equally important.
- Sunnis follow the teachings of scholars from the 7th and 8th centuries.
- Sunni do not accept that a caliph can come exclusively from the Prophet's family.

Shi'a Muslim

- Shia means partisan or separate party.
- The hadith narrated by the companions of the Prophet have less significance than that narrated by his family members.
- The Shi'a follow the teachings and opinions only of a living scholar.

(10)

1.2.2 Difference in governance

Sunni

- There is no clergy in Sunni Islam.
- Any Moslem can serve on community boards.
- Governance is community-based.
- Scholars of Islam and community members serve on governing boards of mosques and madrassah and schools.

Shi'a

- Shi'a Muslim revere the descendants of the Prophet Muhammad and that they have the right to lead Muslims.
- They reserve the title 'Imran' for certain past leaders who are believed to have been chosen by God.
- The final word in any uncertainty about any religious or political issues lies with the representatives of the Imam.
- Governance is in the hands of mullahs (priests) who rule by religious decree.

QUESTION 33.1 3.1.1 Materialism

- This worldview originated in various areas within Europe and Asia.
- It originated during the Axial era from 800–200 BCE.
- Materialism expresses itself in ancient Indian philosophy, in Buddhism and Confucianism.
- In the West materialism was first developed by Greek philosophers – the Atomists, and was revived in the 18th century.
- An elaboration of the concepts of materialism was made by Karl Marx during the 19th century.
- Marx included human history and economic activity into materialism.
- It was at this time that the Protestant movement was gaining ground in Europe.
- This emboldened secularists, including materialists, to develop worldviews other than religion.

(Any other relevant responses must be credited.) (10)

Secular humanism

- It was first used as a concept in the 1950s.
- Secular humanism is a branch of humanism.
- The term 'humanism' was originally a religious term.
- In the Renaissance era a humanist was anyone who studied classical literature and education.
- This movement initially encouraged people to use their intellect to understand scripture.
- Later it became secular, non religious and atheistic.
- It teaches that supernatural beings are not a necessity for teaching right from wrong.
- Humans can work this out for themselves, using their reasoning skills.
- It rejects religious beliefs and the existence of the supernatural.

(Any other relevant responses must be credited.) (10)

3.1.2 Secularism as a worldview

- Secularism is a belief that government and morality should not be based on religion.
- It does not reject religion, but does not give religion the final say on morality or government.
- Instead, secularism sees human intellect as a solution to all challenges.
- Secularism advocates ethics based on reasoning about human nature, without referring to God or gods.
- Secularism advocates freedom of speech and freedom of religion.
- Secularism understands the universe without appealing to religious explanations, such as Creationism and myths.

(Any other relevant responses must be credited.) (10)

3.2 3.2.1 Oral tradition

- Original inspiration is usually first spread through oral tradition in many religions.
- Oral tradition has been used to transfer religious messages before the religious writings.
- Before the invention of writing, religious traditions were transmitted by word of mouth.
- It is true that these traditions developed, changed and are adapted over time.
- All religion followed oral tradition over many centuries and some still have elements of oral traditions.

(Any other relevant responses must be credited.) (10)

3.2.2 Inspiration

- Inspiration is an important normative source in many religions.
- It is the true origin of all religions.
- Inspiration refers to the power or force of an extraordinary being, 'taking over' a chosen being.
- The founding figures of many religions were inspired by a higher power or wisdom.
- Such people felt that they received 'revelation' from an extraordinary being.
- Examples are Moses, Jesus Christ, Abraham, Prophet Muhammad, Buddha and Baha'u'llah.
- In ATR, mediums or diviners receive inspiration while they are in a trance.
- This inspiration is on-going, while that of the Abrahamic faiths did not go beyond their founders.
- Inspiration is a powerful motivation for the followers of a religion.

QUESTION 44.1 4.1.1 Darwin's Theory

- The scientific answer to the question comes from Darwin's Theory of evolution.
- It states that all forms of life are connected from Darwin's common origin.
- Organisms change gradually to adapt to changing environments.
- Those that suit the environment best, become dominant.
- This is called "natural selection".
- The process started many millions of years ago, and is still continuing.
- Human beings also emerged over a long process, spanning millions of years, until 'modern' humans finally emerged about 100 000 years ago.
- The theory of evolution asserts that humans evolved from a common primate ancestor that is apes.

(Any other relevant responses must be credited.) (14)

4.1.2 (a) Christianity

- The Creator is male.
- At first, only the creator existed.
- The Creator made the universe from nothing.
- The process of creation took six days.
- Humans were made on the sixth day.
- There is one perfect God.
- He created the heaven and earth, and all that in it.
- The first two humans were Adam and Eve. God made from clay.
- God breathed His spirit into Adam, and he came to life.
- These humans lived in the perfect Garden of Eden.

(12)

(b) Hinduism

- Hinduism has no problem with evolution. They have more advanced theories which incorporate spiritual evolution.
- The evolution theory did not create conflict with Hindu thought and beliefs. It contributed to the understanding of evolution towards Moksha.
- Therefore, in these religions (Hinduism and Buddhism), there is no change in attitude.
- In African Traditional Religion, there has been no objection to the evolution theory, as the universe is seen as interconnected parts.
- However, the status of man is clearly seen as above all other creation.

(Any other relevant responses must be credited.) (12)

4.1.3 Big Bang Theory

- The Scientific explanation Creation is called the Big Bang Theory.
- According to the Big Bang Theory, it is not known what existed before the Big Bang.
- The Big Bang Theory states that there was enormous explosion and within a second the universe appeared and filled out to an enormous size.
- The Big Bang Theory states that the process of creation occurred within a second.
- According to the scientific account the Big Bang took place 13,7 billion years ago.
- Small temperature differences led to varying densities of matter throughout the universe.
- Those densities formed into clusters of matter and energy.
- The clusters continued to condense in a lump way and eventually formed the vast collection of stars called galaxies.
- Some galaxies condensed into a combination of stars called solar system.
- Scientists believes that the universe is expanding at this moment.
- The scientific account does not mention any Creator.
