MARKING GUIDELINES

MARKS: 150

These marking guidelines consist of 24 pages.

1. SOURCE-BASED QUESTIONS

1.1 The following cognitive levels were used to develop source-based questions:

Cognitive Levels	Historical skills	Weighting of questions
Level 1	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Extract evidence from sources Selection and organisation of relevant information from sources Define historical concepts/terms 	30% (15)
Level 2	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Interpretation of evidence from sources Explain information gathered from sources Analyse evidence from sources 	40% (20)
Level 3	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Interpret and evaluate evidence from sources Engage with sources to determine its usefulness, reliability, bias and limitations Compare and contrast interpretations and perspectives presented in sources and draw independent conclusions 	30% (15)

1.2 The information below indicates how source-based questions are assessed:

- In the marking of source-based questions, credit needs to be given to any other valid and relevant viewpoints, arguments, evidence or examples.
- In the allocation of marks, emphasis should be placed on how the requirements of the question have been addressed.
- In the marking guideline, the requirements of the question (skills that need to be addressed) as well as the level of the question are indicated in italics.
- When assessing open-ended source-based questions, learners should be credited for any other relevant answers.
- Learners are expected to take a stance when answering 'to what extent' questions in order for any marks to be awarded.

1.3 Assessment procedures for source-based questions

- Use a tick (✓) for each correct answer
- Pay attention to the mark scheme e.g. (2 x 2) which translates to two reasons and is given two marks each (✓✓✓✓); (1 x 2) which translates to one reason and is given two marks (✓✓)
- If a question carries 4 marks then indicate by placing 4 ticks (✓✓✓✓)

Paragraph question

Paragraphs are to be assessed globally (holistically). Both the content and structure of the paragraph must be taken into account when awarding a mark. The following steps must be used when assessing a response to a paragraph question:

- Read the paragraph and place a bullet (•) at each point within the text where the candidate has used relevant evidence to address the question.
- Re-read the paragraph to evaluate the extent to which the candidate has been able to use relevant evidence to write a paragraph.

- At the end of the paragraph indicate the ticks (√) that the candidate has been awarded for the paragraph; as well as the level (1, 2 or 3) as indicated in the holistic rubric and a brief comment e.g.

	Level 2 √√√√

COMMENT

Used mostly relevant evidence to write a basic paragraph.

- Count all the ticks for the source-based question and then write the mark on the right-hand bottom margin e.g. $\frac{32}{50}$
- Ensure that the total mark is transferred accurately to the front/back cover of the answer script.

2. ESSAY QUESTIONS2.1 The essay questions require candidates to:

- Be able to structure their argument in a logical and coherent manner. They need to select, organise and connect the relevant information so that they are able to present a reasonable sequence of facts or an effective argument to answer the question posed. It is essential that an essay has an introduction, a coherent and balanced body of evidence and a conclusion.

2.2 Marking of essay questions

- Markers must be aware that the content of the answer will be guided by the textbooks in use at the particular centre.
- Candidates may have any other relevant introduction and/or conclusion than those included in a specific essay marking guideline for a specific essay.

2.3 Global assessment of the essay

The essay will be assessed holistically (globally). This approach requires the teacher to assess the essay as a whole, rather than assessing the main points of the essay separately. This approach encourages the learner to write an original argument by using relevant evidence to support the line of argument. The learner will not be required to simply regurgitate content (facts) in order to achieve a level 7 (high mark). This approach discourages learners from preparing essays and reproducing them without taking the specific requirements of the question into account. Holistic marking of the essay credits learners' opinions that are supported by evidence. Holistic assessment, unlike content-based marking, does not penalise language inadequacies as the emphasis is on the following:

- The learner's interpretation of the question
- The appropriate selection of factual evidence (relevant content selection)
- The construction of an argument (planned, structured and has an independent line of argument)

2.4 Assessment procedures of the essay

2.4.1 Keep the synopsis in mind when assessing the essay.

2.4.2 During the reading of the essay, ticks need to be awarded for a relevant introduction (which is indicated by a bullet in the marking guideline), the main aspects/body of the essay that sustains/defends the line of argument (which is indicated by bullets in the marking guideline) and a relevant conclusion (which is indicated by a bullet in the marking guideline). For example in an essay where there are five (5) main points there could be about seven (7) ticks.

2.4.3 Keep the PEEL structure in mind when assessing an essay.

P	Point: The candidate introduces the essay by taking a line of argument/making a major point. Each paragraph should include a point that sustains the major point (line of argument) that was made in the introduction.
E	Explanation: The candidate should explain in more detail what the main point is about and how it relates to the question posed (line of argument).
E	Example: The candidates should answer the question by selecting content that is relevant to the line of argument. Relevant examples should be given to sustain the line of argument.
L	Link: Candidates should ensure that the line of argument is sustained throughout the essay and is written coherently.

2.4.4 The following symbols MUST be used when assessing an essay:

- Introduction, main aspects and conclusion not properly contextualised

^

- Wrong statement

- Irrelevant statement

2.5 The matrix

2.5.1 Use of the matrix in the marking of essays

In the marking of essays, the criteria as provided in the matrix should be used. When assessing the essay note both the content and presentation. At the point of intersection of the content and presentation based on the seven competency levels, a mark should be awarded.

- (a) The first reading of essays will be to determine to what extent the main aspects have been covered and to allocate the content level (on the matrix).

C	LEVEL 4

- (b) The second reading of essays will relate to the level (on the matrix) of presentation.

P	LEVEL 3

- (c) Allocate an overall mark with the use of the matrix.

	C	LEVEL 4	} 26–27
	P	LEVEL 3

SECTION B: ESSAY QUESTIONSQUESTION 4: CASE STUDY – CHINA

[Plan and construct an original argument based on relevant evidence using analytical and interpretative skills]

SYNOPSIS

- Candidates should explain to what extent Mao Zedong's policies of the Great Leap Forward and the Cultural Revolution were successful in increasing the industrial and agricultural production in the People's Republic of China between 1958 and 1969.

MAIN ASPECTS

Candidates should include the following aspects in their response:

- Introduction: Candidates should take a line of argument by stating to what extent the Great Leap Forward and the Cultural Revolution were successful in increasing China's industrial and agricultural output. They need to support their stance with relevant evidence.

ELABORATION

Candidates could include the following points in their answer:

- The First Five Year Plan and the Hundred Flowers Campaign as background only.

The Great Leap Forward: Industries

- The main reason for the Great Leap Forward was to ensure that China becomes a top industrial power and could compete with the West and other European countries
- To end privatisation and introduce nationalisation
- Introduction of backyard industries in communes
- Depended on unskilled human resources (peasants) to work in the industries
- Production of iron and steel dropped because of a lack of incentives and poor working conditions
- The production of coal dropped dramatically
- Industrial output dropped
- Poor quality of iron, steel and other products

Agriculture

- It aimed to industrialise China so that it could overtake capitalist countries; improve agricultural production similar to that of western countries
- Mao Zedong wanted to speed up agricultural production through the Second Five Year Plan of 1958
- Agricultural output was not enough to sustain urban consumption and to serve workers for industrialisation
- Focused at ending privatisation and introducing nationalisation
- Embarked on collectivisation of farms into 'Peoples communes'
- Communes were expected to be self-sufficient and to produce according to quotas set by the state
- Agricultural targets were not reached
- Propaganda used to increase agricultural and industrial production

Failures of the Great Leap Forward:

- Owing to bad planning; poor support to peasants; corrupt local officials; high taxation on farm products the Great Leap Forward failed to realise its objectives
- Backyard industries produced inferior quality goods that contributed to the collapse of this sector
- Peasants were reluctant to produce because of a lack of incentives
- The industrialisation of China depended on unskilled peasants rather than on modern machinery
- Poor quality of iron and steel were produced in backyard furnaces
- China was hit by severe drought which led to famine, killing millions of people though starvation 'known as the Bitter Three Years'
- This resulted in the Great Leap forward being a dismal failure
- Mao resigned as President of China but kept his position as Chairman of the Chinese Communist Party
- In 1962 he handed over responsibility of the economy to President Liu Shaoqi and CCP General Secretary Deng Xiaoping and withdrew from the political scene
- China's economy was in a state of bankruptcy

The Cultural Revolution:

- The main purpose was to regain the authority that was lost due to the failure of the Great Leap Forward
 - Mao launched the Cultural Revolution in 1966 to regain power
 - Mao made a call to the Chinese public to rid the country of those who were anti-revolutionary
 - This call was answered by students who organised themselves into the Red Guards
 - Red Guards were influenced by the propaganda in the Little Red Book
 - They educated peasants on principles of communism; taught them reading and writing
 - Red Guards started to purge opponents of communism
 - Moderates were eliminated and millions of opponents were killed
 - Churches, mosques, schools and universities were destroyed and anti-communist art and books were burned and destroyed
 - Red Guards urged to destroy the 'Four Olds' (Old ideas, Old traditions, Old culture, and Old habits)
 - Huge demonstrations were held in Tiananmen Square, Beijing and posters and pictures of Mao were put up everywhere
 - Deng Xiaoping and Liu Shaoqi were removed from office
 - The Red Guards got rid of professionals and parents who were suspected of being anti-revolutionary
 - Industrialisation was negatively affected and production came to a standstill in 1968
 - Mao forced to call in the army to restore law and order
 - Millions of Chinese students were sent to the countryside for re-education
 - A generation of Chinese were left without formal education
 - People lost confidence in the Chinese Communist Party
 - Any other relevant response
- Conclusion: Candidates should tie up their argument with a relevant conclusion. [50]

- Sese Seko relied heavily on agriculture and mineral extraction (one product economy) and this had a negative impact on Congo's economy
- Lacked a vibrant manufacturing sector
- Followed a capitalist economic system
- Zaireanisation (replacing foreigners with Zairean nationals) failed due to inexperience/corruption/mismanagement/ neglect
- The economy was characterised by nepotism and elitism (huge gulf between the rich and the poor emerged)
- Nationalised land and industries this led to poor roads and bridges
- Decline in the state of infrastructure
- Increased the gap between the rich and the poor
- Application of Retrocession (reversal of Zaireanisation)
- Dependant on foreign aid and investment, e.g. from the World Bank
- Any other relevant response

Tanzania:

- Inherited single product economy from Britain
 - Lacked a vibrant manufacturing sector
 - Relied heavily on agricultural and mineral extraction (one product economy) and was unable to develop a credible manufacturing sector
 - Followed an African socialist economic system
 - Arusha Declaration (abolished exploitation/reduction of income gap between the poor and the rich/ownership of the country's resources)
 - Villagisation (collective villages) improved service delivery/created a stable society that was free from economic inequalities). However, farmers refused to leave their ancestral lands and agricultural production fell dramatically
 - Most companies that were nationalised became bankrupt
 - Exports declined and poverty rose dramatically
 - Attempts to make Tanzania self- sufficient failed
 - Tanzania managed to minimise the gap between the rich and the poor
 - Tanzania reverted to dependence on foreign aid / loans in the 1970s, e.g. from the World Bank

- 'Freedom Riders' (non-racial/non-violent) - ('sat-in' buses and travelled from north to the deep south to test the new federal laws prohibiting segregation on the national bus system, were attacked by mobs, bombed, thrown in jail and not protected by the local police, thousands volunteered and President Kennedy was forced to order the federal marshals to protect the Freedom Riders; Tough new legislation introduced by the federal order; 1 November 1961 officially all interstate public facilities were desegregated
- Demonstrations and marches
- Birmingham Campaign, 1963: (Mass demonstrations were met with violent and vicious reaction from police (water cannons, dogs, etc. were used to terrorise non-violent protestors) President Kennedy stated on TV that 'racial segregation' was a 'moral issue' that 'had no place in American life'. On 10 May 1963 the city's businesses and municipalities announced that municipal facilities would be desegregated. Attacks and murders of African Americans in the city continued (e.g. Medgar Evers, Bombing of 16th Street Baptist Church)

 - Second March 9 March 1965 (1500 protestors led by Martin Luther King Jr were confronted by police at the Edmund Pettus Bridge) - King ordered marchers to turn back to avoid confrontation
 - Third March 21 March 1965 (The march started with around 2000 and by the 25 March, the number had increased to around 50 000)
 - President Johnson placed the Alabama National Guard and the US army under federal control to protect the protestors (Marchers reached Montgomery and were addressed by speakers such as Martin Luther King Jr)
 - President Johnson was pressurised to pass the 1965 Voting Rights Act: (it outlawed obstacles such as literacy tests, poll taxes to voting. This resulted in the Civil Rights Movement achieving equality before the law)
- The Civil Rights Act was passed (2 July 1964) - it barred discrimination and segregation in the employment of Americans and at all public facilities
- The Voting Rights Act was passed (6 August 1965) - It outlawed obstacles (such as literacy tests, poll taxes) to voting which had been put in place to prevent African Americans from registering as voters; The Civil Rights Movement achieved equality before the law
